

An autumn afternoon of literary delights

Saturday 16 May 2015 – 3.00 pm – 5.00 pm

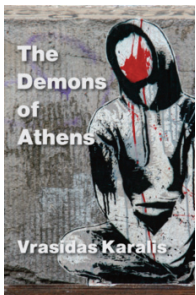

Brandl & Schlesinger Publishers and Gleebooks invite you to afternoon tea and an “in conversation” with authors:

Damien Freeman – The Aunt's Mirrors

The Aunt's Mirrors is a memoir of how an immigrant family from Poland made a new life whilst continuing an old one with values that sustained seven generations of an Australian Jewish family.

Damien Freeman has lectured at the Philosophy Faculty at Cambridge on ‘Beauty, Art and Aesthetic Experience’ and at the Art Gallery of New South Wales and is currently Director of the Governor-General’s Prize.

Vrasidas Karalis – The Demons of Athens

The Demons of Athens is a personal journey of the author’s return to Athens during the current political turmoil, only to find the cherished scenes of his past have turned into Dante’s Inferno. Professor Vrasidas Karalis holds the Sir Nicholas Laurantos’ Chair in Modern Greek Studies at the University of Sydney.

Kellinde Wrightson – The Notorious Frances Thwaites

Set in the 1890s in colonial Australia this is the true story of Frances Thwaites who had a scandalous reputation for petty theft, baby farming and finally murder and was, in her day, as infamous as Ned Kelly.

Kellinde Wrightson is an award-winning scholar, lawyer and published academic researcher. She will be a guest at this year’s Sydney Writers Festival.

Chair – David Brooks is Honorary Associate Professor at the Department of English, University of Sydney and a novelist, poet, essayist and animal rights activist.

Check out Brandl & Schlesinger’s website – www.brandl.com.au for more information about the books and authors.

Venue: Govett’s Café, Shop 5, 25 Govetts Leap Road, Blackheath

Cost: $10.00 includes afternoon tea (also BYO alcohol)

RSVP: Blackheath@gleebooks.com.au Phone: 4787 6340

Booking essential as seats are limited.

Brandl & Schlesinger